

WEIKE GAMING ANNOUNCES LAUNCH OF NEW MACHINES: INFINITY LOWBOY & INFINITY HIGHBOY

Weike Gaming Technology, Singapore's only licensed Gaming machine manufacturer has just announced the impending market launch of Infinity Lowboy and Infinity Highboy machines for its WP30 gaming platform. Commenting on the launch, David Kinsman, Weike Gaming's CEO said, "This new range of cabinets is our first major product upgrade for the WP30 platform launched earlier this year. We have designed a new range of cabinets to meet client requirements across the Asian market, and deliveries will commence in December 2008, with the first of this new range being delivered to a major Macau based operator."

Infinity Lowboy and Infinity Highboy machines are SAS 6.02 compatible and certified to GLI-11 standards, a major achievement by Weike Gaming. It can accommodate all major monitoring and player tracking systems, includes dual LCD screens with high quality touch screens, TITO, a range of Bill Acceptors, Dolby surround sound with stereo speakers and sub woofer, "Gamesman" button panels and other client facilities and requirements to meet the needs of Weike's markets in Asia.

"This new cabinet range was designed in-house by our product development team, and heralds a new standard of both quality and technical facilities" Kinsman said, "We have incorporated facilities for all markets in Asia, from Singapore through to Indo China and Macau. The cabinets come in a standard version without coin trays, but for markets like Singapore where coins are still used, these are available as a no-cost option. Weike's WP30, imbedded Windows platform incorporating 'off the shelf PC technology' is further enhanced by this new range".

Weike expects the new cabinet to be operating in venues in Macau prior to Christmas, with deliveries to other markets in the succeeding months.
